FROM the very great Encouragement the Publisher of this Directory has received from the Gentry, and Public at large, for a Series of Seven Years, he is again induced to publish a NEW EDITION.

The Favors of several eminent Gentlemen in the Assistance of so useful a Work, he begs Leave to acknowledge.

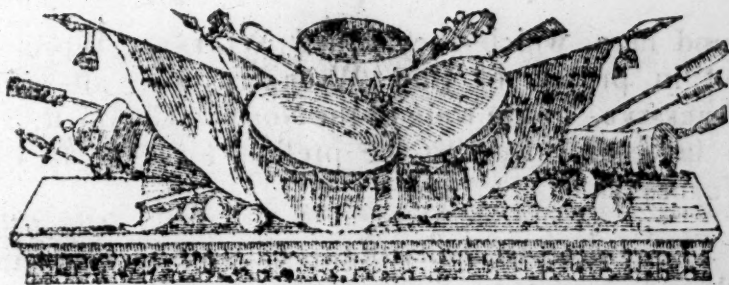

Care has been taken to have this Directory as correct as possible, but the Fluctuation of Human Affairs render a Work of this Kind subject to great Variation in the List

Lift of Inhabitants, &c. for were it possible to procure a correct One in the Course of a Week, there may, before the End of another, be Alterations, (thro' Deaths, Removals, Partnerships, &c.) so must this be always liable to Mutation.

Its Utility has always been recommended, and received his MAJESTY's Approbation, in the Year 1788, when he condescended to visit this antient and loyal City.

An

An Historical ACCOUNT of
The antient and present State of
W O R C E S T E R.

WORCESTER has a place among the eminent cities in England. There are reckoned but five superior to it for largeness and populousness. Its situation is very pleasant, on the gradual ascent of the eastern bank of the Severn; the High-street extending itself along the highest ground. On the south-west is a fine view of Malvern Hills and Wells, (about 8 miles from this city.) This mountain, which befriends its whole neighbourhood, is beneficial to Worcester by its salutary springs and air. On the north-west are seen Abberley Hills; on the east side the view is finely terminated by several round eminences tufted with trees.

Constantius Cæsar has been assigned for the founder of Worcester, a City of the Antient Britons. It derived its name from the Saxon word WIGA-ERNE, which signifies a Warrior's Lodge, or the Heroe's Place of Retirement. Probably this was the reason of the name the Saxons gave the CEASTRE, or Roman Fort found here, which they called WIGERNA, WIGORNA, and in process of time WIGRA-CESTER; afterwards WIRCESTRE, in the time of the Norman Conquest, and in succeeding ages to the present form of spelling WORCESTER.

The remote Antiquity of this City has been generally allowed, from the remains of Roman roads and stately buildings found here, and in the county.

Of the CATHEDRAL.

The Cathedral makes a noble appearance; its model resembles the Collegiate Church of BRUESELS, in the AUSTRIAN NETHERLANDS.

About the year 268, the Church which the Britons had in this place, was dedicated to St. Peter.

It was not a Cathedral till the year 679, when Ethelred King of Mercia, placed in it the chair of that Bishop of the Wiccians, who was consecrated by Archbishop Theodore.

The first mention of St. Mary's Minster, is in a Charter of King Æthelbald, A. D. 743.

In the reign of King Edgar, A. D. 964, Bishop Oswald rebuilt the church; but the improvements in architecture since brought his structure into contempt by the Normans, whose nobles were addicted to pilgrimages in the Holy Land, and brought a loftier style of building, what is now called the Gothic. The noblest part of the Cathedral we owe to Bishop Wulstan, who, in 1084, laid the foundation of a new church, which he finished in four years. — On this Bishop's seeing the workmen pull down the old church, he wept,
and

and said, "We destroy the works of our forefathers, "only to get praise of ourselves; that happy age of "holy men, knew not how to build stately churches, "and under any roof offered up themselves living temples unto God; but we, neglecting the care of souls, "labour to heap up stones."

The new Cathedral suffered more than once by fire, in ages subsequent to its erection. In 1218, it was consecrated anew, in the presence of King Henry III. and a grand assembly of nobility, bishops, &c. and dedicated to Mary the Holy Mother of God, the blessed Apostle Peter, and St. Oswald and Wulfstan. — Two years after, the bells were consecrated; some to the Saviour and his Mother, to Hauteclere, and his Compeer, to St. John the Evangelist.

In 1224, the church was enlarged by Bishop Blois; this was the west front.

In 1374, the Tower was finished. There are eight musical bells, supposed to be equal to those of York, the largest weighing 6600lb. and have the following inscriptions:

1. God save our King.—2.—3.
4. Honi soit qui Mal y pense.
5. Richardo Eedes Decano. 1602.
6. Hoc Opus inspecto, Jesu Virtute favet.
7. Miserere Deus meus: habeo Nomeno Gausreus.
8. I sweetly Touling Men do call,

To take on Meat that feeds the Soul.

In 1380, Bishop Wakefield lengthened the nave and side isles, and made a stately window at the west front, where the Throne of his present Majesty GEORGE III. was erected, when he honoured the Music Meeting with his presence, in 1788; and which window was again rebuilt under the inspection of Mr. Thomas Johnson, Architect, in 1789, in commemoration of the Royal Visit.

A new window was likewise built in the year 1792, at the east end of the Cathedral, under the inspection of Mr. Thomas Johnson, Architect, in which are beautiful paintings on glass, executed by Mrs. Johnson, viz. The Eye of Providence; Arms of the Chapter; Dove; Four Evangelists; Trinity; Edgar's Tower, &c.

The Stalls in the Choir were made in 1397, but the cornices over them are a modern work. They are made with fine Irish oak, with abundance of carvings, and are in number 52.

The Pulpit is of stone, of an octagon figure, carved in the Gothic mode, with the four Evangelic Hieroglyphics, and a curious representation of the New Jerusalem, as described in the Revelations.

The Altar-piece, which is of plain oak, with pilasters in the Corinthian order, has a beautiful Picture of the Descent from the Cross, in the centre pannel, which was presented to the Chapter by Valentine Green, Esq. in the year 1792.

The Bishop's Throne is a work in the old taste; on the top is the type of the ecclesiastical jurisdiction; and the emblems of peace, denoting the olive branch.

The Organ consists of 9 stops; the trumpet stop is allowed the finest in the kingdom. The last repair-ation of it cost 300l. raised by subscription of the neighbouring noblemen, whose arms are blazoned on the gallery.

In 1373, the Cloister was built, in which is the Library; and the College-Hall, where the Oratorios are performed at the Triennial Meetings of the three Choirs, for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the clergy.—The King's School is likewise kept here.

In 1320, the Priory Great Hall, or Audit-House, was built.

MONUMENTS in the Cathedral.

The chief Monument in the Cathedral is that of

K I N G J O H N,

Near the Altar; the most ancient one that is extant, in England at least, of the lineal ancestors of his present Majesty from the time of William the Conqueror. King John's body was conveyed hither by the Earl of Pembroke. His effigy lies on the tomb crowned, whereon was written, "Johannes Rex Anglæ;" which is now defaced. In his right hand is a sceptre; in his left a sword lying by him, whose point is received in the mouth of a couchant lion at his feet. The figure is as large as life. On each side of him are cumbent images of the bishops Oswald and Wulstan, in smaller size, each of one stone of grey marble; they are represented as censuring him. King John died Oct. 19. 1215. His bowels was buried at Croxton Abbey, and his body, according to his desire, in this Church.

P R I N C E A R T H U R.

The sepulchral Chapel of Prince ARTHUR, elder Brother of HENRY VIII. is a most curious and elaborate piece of antique grandeur in this Cathedral. The workmanship with which it is decorated, and which has been newly beautified in 1791, consists of five orders of images, viz. virgins, bishops, kings, confessors, and angels; arms of England, and other symbols and badges of royalty. The top is terminated in an arched roof curiously fretted, in whose centre is a pendant, on the boss of which are the arms of the Prince of Wales, encompassed with crowns, carved in stone. Beneath this is his tomb, of fine marble. Round the verge of the top is the following inscription:

"Here

"Heere lyeth buried Prince ARTHUR, the first
 "begotten Sonne of the righte Renowned King
 "HENRY the Seaventh, which noble Prince departed
 "out of this transitory Life att the Castle of Ludlow,
 "the seaventeenthe Yeere of his Father's Reign, and
 "of our Lord God, one thousande five hundred and
 "two."

In Our Lady's Chapel are the sepulchral Tombs of
 St. OSWALD and WULSTAN;

Near which are the following Monuments of Bishop Thornborough, on the tomb lies his statue in his episcopal robes, with an arch cannopy over him.

Dean Eedes, his statue cumbent; at his feet a lion.

Bishops Blandford, Stillington, and Gauden, are all of modern construction, with inscriptions in latin.

Mr. Henry Bright, forty years master of the King's School, at Worcester.

Lacy, Earl of Lincoln, destitute of arms and inscription.

Sir James Beauchamp, a knight of the holy voyage;
 he is represented armed, his right hand on his sword, which is partly drawn, on his left a shield; and at his feet a lion.

Philip Hawford, Abbot of Evesham, his effigy lies on the tomb in the robes of an abbot, his head mitred and supported by angels, at his feet a lion. His right hand is held up, as blessing; in his left is a staff, distinguishing him as an abbot.

Countess of Salisbury. She is represented lying, having on her head a veil, and on her chin a wimplet, or deep muffler, extending over her breast, holding in her hands a string of beads. Several escutcheons are dispersed

disperfed about the drapery, blazoned. At her feet, a falbot. The Countefs of Salisbury when dancing before King EDWARD III. dropped her garter, which the King taking up, honoured it fo much, it is faid, as to make it the denominating enfig of "The moft noble Order of the Garter;" from whence the Order of Knight of the Garter is fupposed to have been inftituted.

Bifhop John de Constantiis, is represented in his facerd vestments, but much defaced.

Walter de Cantilupe, is represented mitred and vested, his hands as giving a benediction, his head fupported by two angels, and at his feet a lion.

Bifhop Parry, has a ftatue of him recumbent and praying.

Sir Griffith Rice, is an antient tomb. His figure with his lady's were of caft brafs, inlaid on the top, but now entirely gone.

Bifhop Godfrey Giffard, is represented lying in his pontificals, mitred: at his head and feet, angels; and on the fides of the tombs feveral carvings of faints.

Mrs. Margaret Rea, is a fine monument; in the centre of it is a fquare infcription table, of white marble, furrounded with a border of jafper. In the front is an oval medallion, containing a very beautiful relievo, in profile, of the buft of this lady, furrounded with white palm branches. On each fide is a genius or boy of the natural fize, finely cut in ftatuary. That on the right, representing Celeftial Joy, turns his head upwards as looking at the medallion with a countenance expreffive of pleafure and admiration, preffing his right hand on his breaft, and holding in his left a lamp burning, fignifying perpetual light. The other genius

genius on the left, represents Terrestrial Mourning; he weeps, and turns his face from the medal; having in his right hand a small sepulchral urn, and his left lifting up drapery, to dry off or receive his tears. Above the medallion are two garlands of laurel, cut in white marble, and in junction together, representing the tie of Conjugal Love. Near the top of the pyramid, are the arms of the husband and wife, both cut and properly blazoned, with the crest and motto—
IN OMNIA PROMPTUS.

Mrs. Jane Rous, a small neat oval monument of beautiful marble.

Dr. John Hough, Bishop of this Diocese. He is represented sitting in a reclined posture, on a block of black marble. Underneath he is represented standing before the High Commission Court, which ejected him from the government of Magdalen College Oxford. Three tools of tyranny are seated on the bench; a secretary is minuting down their proceedings; and Dr. Hough, at the head of the Fellows of the College, making his defence. This curious sculpture was executed by Mr. Roubillac, and is the finest of the kind in this part of the kingdom.

Sir Thomas Street, Knt. This is a fine white marble monument, erected to his memory, who was a Justice of the Court of Common Pleas, in the Reign of James II.

Dr. James Johnson, late Bishop of Worcester, is a fine white marble bust, and is esteemed a great likeness.

Dr. Isaac Maddox, In the front of which is represented, in basso relievo, the parable of the good Samaritan. On the left is placed the figure of a woman, resting resting on it with her elbow, and reclining her cheek on her right hand; her left holds a burning torch reversed.

In the Nave of the Church are the Monuments of

Of Bishops, Deans, Archdeacons, and Chancellors.

From the Foundation of the See of this Diocese, (680,) to the present Time, there has been 100 Bishops, the present Right Reverend Lord Bishop is RICHARD HURD, D. D. (translated from Litchfield and Coventry,) and Clerk of the Closet to his present Majesty George III. Consecrated in 1781.

From the first Installment of Deans, (1540,) to this Time, there has been 28; the present worthy Dean is the Hon. ST. ANDREW ST. JOHN, D. D. installed in 1783.

From the first Collation of Archdeacons, (1089,) there has been 51; the present worthy Archdeacon is THOMAS EVANS, D. D. collated in 1787.

From the Commencement of Chancellors, (1289,) there has been 28; the present worshipful Chancellor is Sir WILLIAM BURRELL, Bart. L. L. D. his Patent bore date, 1764.

*Of the City of WORCESTER in its present State;
public Buildings, &c.*

The Geographical Situation of WORCESTER, is in the Latitude of 52 Degrees 18 Minutes, and Longitude West 2 Degrees and 15 Minutes. It is a City and County of itself; and returns two Members to Parliament. The Circumference of the City is about four measured Miles. It has the most considerable Hop-Market, during that Season, in the Kingdom.

There are Nine Parish Churches within the Liberties of the City, and two without, exclusive of the Cathedral, viz.

St. Nicholas, a rectory, in the patronage of the Bishop of Worcester, situate at the Cross. It is a handsome well-built church. The entrance Doric, three-quarter columns with plain mouldings; on the inner pilasters a circular pediment, beneath which is fixed a carving of the arms of England, well executed. The base of the tower is square, with double breaks at the corners; on the front plane is the dial; and in the others windows. From a plain cornice, it is set off square, with windows and round arras: from thence capped with another plain cornice, it is set off to an octagon, on whose several sides are the windows of the bell-room, which contains six musical bells. From thence it is brought into a round, on which is a cupola, supported by eight Tuscan columns, with a pyramidal top, concluded with a gilt ball, which sustains a large weathercock gilt. This tower is much admired for the various composition of building it contains, and is, with the church, a very elegant structure.

Its

Its inside consists of a circular Doric altar-piece, stucco panelled, over which is a pretty group of cherubin's heads, &c. Above that is a round window; upon the glass is fine paintings, viz. a Dove, the hieroglyphic of the Holy Ghost, descending, encompassed with a full glory, of an excellent transparency, and makes a most pleasing appearance.

St. Helen's, a rectory, in the grant of the Bishop of Worcester. Situated between the Guild-Hall and the Cathedral. The fabric is old and venerable; the altar-piece is neat. Its tower contains an octave peal of tuneable bells, remarkable for the inscriptions they bear, in honour and memory of the glorious battles and achievements of Queen Ann's victorious heroes. They are as follow, viz.

1. BLLENHEIM.—First is my note, and Blenheim is my name:
For Blenheim's story will be first in fame.
2. BARCELONA.—Let me relate, how Louis did bemoan
His grandson Philip's flight from Barcelona.
3. RAMILIES. — Delug'd in blood, I, Ramilies, advance
Britannia's glory in the fall of France.
4. MENIN. — Let Menin on my sides engraven be,
And Flander's freed from Gallic slavery.
5. TURIN. — When in harmonious peal I roundly go,
Think on Turin, and triumphs of the Po.
6. EUGENE. — With joy I bear illustrious Eugene's name,
Fav'rite of fortune, and the boast of fame.
7. MARLBOROUGH.—But I, with pride, the greater Marlborough bear,
Terror of tyrants, and the soul of war.
8. QUEEN ANN. — The immortal praises of Queen Ann I found;
With union blest, and all these glories crown'd.

They all bear date, 1706, except the 7th bell, whose date is 1712.

All

All Saints, a rectory, in the dispensation of the Crown. Situate at the bottom of Broad Street, and built in the year 1742. It is well and regularly pewed, and makes a handsome appearance; a new gallery has lately been erected for the reception of the singers, who have an excellent band of music for the church service. The tower is terminated by four pinnacles with battlements, and contains a set of ten musical bells. Over the west window on the outside is a carved head of the late Bishop Hough.— In this church is an old monument of Edward Hurdman, Esq. the first mayor of Worcester.

St. Swithin's, a rectory, in the gift of the Chapter of Worcester, situate in Church-street, near the High-street. It was rebuilt in the year 1736. The pulpit is enriched with carving, the top is finished with an eagle, feeding her young brood, in a nest, emblematically indicating compassion. This church has a pretty organ, consisting of 11 stops, and supported by two doric pillars fluted; and is the gift of W. Swift, Esq. The church is uniformly neat; and tower contains a set of six musical bells, with a set of chimes.

St. Martin's, a rectory, in the presentation of the Chapter of Worcester. Situate in the Corn Market, and was rebuilt in 1782. This edifice is of brick, but the windows and corners are coped with stone, and has a pretty set of six bells.

St. Peter's, a vicarage, in the presentation of the Chapter of Worcester, situate adjoining Sidbury, is a small ancient church, void of any thing curious for inspection or description. The Chapel of St. James, at Whittington, is annexed to this vicarage.

St.

St. Andrew's, a vicarage, in the patron of the Chapter of Worcester. Situate in Cooken-street. This is an old church, but has lately been repaired: the altar-piece is of the modern taste, very neat, in the Corinthian order of architecture, with decent embellishments. The chief ornament is its spire; Salisbury is much higher, but in appearance ends abrupt to this. The spire is concluded with a Corinthian capital, on which is fixed a large weather-cock, gilt.

St. Alban's, a rectory, in the disposal of the Bishop of Worcester, is a very old structure, situate in Fish-Street.

St. Clement, a vicarage, in the patronage of the Chapter of Worcester, situate near Pitchcroft. It is a small old church, and admits of nothing material for observation, excepting that the church is the only part of that parish on this side the Severn, all the houses and inhabitants belonging to this parish being on the opposite shore.

St. Michael's, in Bedwardine, a rectory in the patronage of the Dean of Worcester. This church is situate adjoining the Cathedral. The inside was a few years ago made very neat, by a new altar-piece, communion table, pulpit, gallery, and pews.

St. John Baptist, in Bedwardine, a vicarage, in the gift of the Chapter of Worcester. Is situate on the extremity of the western suburbs of Worcester, on the other side of the Severn. It is an old church and plain; but has lately had an addition of a new gallery. Here is a good peal of six bells.

The Bishop's Palace, an ancient and commodious structure, had many additions made by Bishop Sandy's, and new-fronted by Bishop Stillingfleet; it has likewise undergone great improvements since the reception of his present Majesty George III. the Queen, and Princesses, in 1788, whose residence during their stay in this City was at the Palace; in commemoration of which his Majesty has been pleased to present two fine whole length Portraits, one of the King, in his Windsor uniform, blue and gold; the other of the Queen, in a laylock dress, fringed with gold, which are both placed in the drawing room of this palace; between which portraits is the following Latin inscription, in gold letters, on a white oval marble:

Hospes
 Imagines, quas contemplaris,
 Augustorum Principum
 GEORGII III. et CHARLOTTÆ Conjugis,
 REX ipse
 Richardo Episcopo Vigornienſi,
 Donavit.
 M D C C X C.

Dr. James Johnson, Bishop of Worcester, in the Year 1766, made many alterations and additions in this Palace. The Levee Room, is in the Gothic taste. The chapel, in which the morning and evening service were read to the Royal Family, during their stay in Worcester, is a small neat one, built with Irish oak; on the window, over the altar-piece, is painted glass, with inscriptions in High Dutch.

GUILD-

G U I L D - H A L L.

The most elegant and magnificent in the Kingdom. It was, in 1788, inspected by His Majesty, who had previously signified his intentions of visiting that stately fabric, when he proceeded in procession with the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and Common Council of the City, in their robes, from the Palace, preceded by the different companies of trade, with their colours flying, drums beating, and other martial music, playing, "God save the King;" at the Guild-Hall a Triumphant Arch was erected, and every mark of loyalty shewn by the citizens. After which the procession conducted His Majesty to the Palace, who was graciously pleased to express his satisfaction at the loyal behaviour of the Citizens.

This edifice was built in 1720. The front consists of two three-quarter columns Composite; the windows have stone mouldings. Over the whole a cove cornice, with a circular pediment from the pilasters, beneath which is a Roman Trophy: the Imperial Arms of England, supported by two angels. The entrance from a flight of four semicircular steps. The top is ornamented with five statues, viz. on the centre, Justice, blindfolded, with her sword and ballance; on her right hand, Peace, with the olive branch; on the left Plenty, with the cornucopia; the statue at the north-end represents, Chastisement; that on the south, Hercules, or Labour. Between the two centre windows of the upper room in the front, is a statue of Queen Ann. In the niches, on each side of the entrance, are the statues of Charles I. and II. the former supporting the Church, and the latter holding regal Government. On each side of this edifice is a spacious elegant wing, so connected with it, as to be occasionally appropriated for for the residence of the city officers.—In the lower part of the inside are two Courts of Justice, the Crown and Nisi Prius Bars, in which are held the Assizes and Sessions for the County and City, in the Oxford Circuit; over which are handsome rooms, for tea and cards, at the public assemblies, which are usually held in the Council Chamber; there are likewise contiguous to the Courts of Justice two commodious rooms, for the county and city Grand Juries.—On the chair of the Crown Bar is written, in gold letters:

“ Accessit Magistratibus Auctoritas,

“ Honorantur Recta Prava Puniuntur.”

Facing which, over a head of Justice, is written,

“ Fiat Justitia Ruat Cælum ”

Over the arch of the Nisi Prius Bar is written,

“ Audi et alteram Partem.”

At the north-end of the Hall are three fine whole length paintings, viz.

Earl of Plymouth, | Queen Ann, | Sir John Packington.

At the south-end,

Thomas Earl of Coventry | Right Hon. T. Winnington,
George William, Earl of Coventry.

The body of the hall, with the quadrangle in the front, is appropriated on Fair and Market-days for those who bring butter, poultry, cloth, &c.

Over the body of the hall is the Council Chamber, a spacious handsome room, lately improved and beautified, at a very considerable expence, by the Corporation.

ration, for the reception of the King's Picture. Over the grand entrance is an elegant Music Gallery, of cast iron, with gilt ornaments. On each side of the entrance is a chimney-piece, of statuary marble, with register stoves; at each end, in a semicircular colonnade, is likewise a chimney-piece, and a grate of the same kind; over which, in stucco, the City Arms, emblazoned, ornamented with the Cap of Liberty, emblematical devices of War and Music, Cornucopias, &c. On each side of these fire-places, are spacious recesses, ornamented with medallions of the Muses and Graces. The ceiling is richly embossed in stucco work, with profiles of their Majesties, wreaths of flowers, &c. on a ground of various colours, judiciously painted. The cornice and fret-work, do infinite credit to the Artificer. In the centre of the room, opposite the grand entrance, is a pedestal of statuary marble, which supports the Portrait of His Majesty, in his Coronation Robes, in a superb frame, embellished with the ensigns of Royalty. — Encircled with a wreath of oak leaves, and acorns, of exquisite sculpture, is the following inscription, in gold letters :

HIS MAJESTY GEORGE III.

MOST GRACIOUSLY CONDESCENDED TO HONOUR WITH HIS PRESENCE, THE CORPORATION OF WORCESTER,
IN THIS HALL, AUG. 8, 1788.

The room is lighted by twelve chandeliers, of looking glass, in the form of a shield, in burnished frames, ornamented with plumes of feathers, palm branches, and pendant festoons; the chairs are mahogany, and correspond with the pattern of the glasses.

The

The Bridge, is a noble structure, of five arches, built under the direction of the late Mr. Gwynn. The first stone was laid by the Right Hon. the Earl of Coventry, and has the following inscription engraved on a brass plate thereon :

Vicesimo et quinto Die Julii, anno ab
Incarnatione, M.D.C.C.L.X.X.I.
Regnante GEORGIO tertio.
Prætoræ Edwardo Wellings,
Johanne Gwynn, Arcitecto.
Hunc primum Lapidem posuit,
Georgius Gulielmus Comes de Coventria,
Hunc Urbi Amicus et Patronus.

TRANSLATION.

George William, Earl of Coventry,
Friend and Patron of this City,
Laid this first stone,
The twenty-fifth day of July, in the year,
Of the Incarnation, 1771, in the Reign of GEORGE the Third.
Edward Wellings, Mayor,
John Gwynn, Architect.

This Bridge was finished in the year 1780. Over the centre arch, northward, is the head of Sabrina;* on the south the City Arms.—On the west side are two toll-houses, similar to those formerly on Black Friars Bridge, London.!

* SABRINA, Daughter of Lady Elfride, Paramour to Lochrine, King of Britain, 1084 Years before the Birth of Christ, was drowned, with her Mother, in this River, by Guendoline, Lochrine's Queen; from whence the Name of Severn took its Origin from the Latin Word Sabrina.

King

King Edgar's Tower, a strong and stately Portal; it belonged to the Saxon citadel, and was the fortress of Worcester Castle, built in the year 970. In the front are the statues of King Edgar, and his Queens, Elfreda and Elfrida. On the west-front is a bust of King George II.

Commandery, was an Hospital built to the honour of St. Wulstan, Bishop of Worcester. Some say it was a house of the Knights of St. John. The Hall of the Hospital is still remaining, roofed with Irish Oak, and has curious carvings. Duke Hamilton, who fought so valiantly for his Majesty King Charles II. at the Battle of Worcester, was buried in a parlour belonging to this house.

Riding School, near Digley-House, is a large roomy structure, well adapted for the purpose of exercising horses, and is generally used by the Dragoons when quartered in Worcester. Here the French, Spanish, and Dutch Prisoners of War were lodged, in the year 1782, on their march thro' Worcester. Over the gateway of the entrance of this school is the following inscription:

Erected by
The QUEEN's Regiment of Dragoons.

M, D C C, L I I.

The Theatre, was built by subscription, in 1781, under the direction of J. A. Whitley, Esq. It is a small neat piece of building, situate in Angel-street: the inside paintings contribute to please the eye. It is frequented by a travelling company of comedians, at particular seasons of the year.

The

The Infirmary, is supported by a voluntary subscription of the nobility and gentry of the county and city, and is of great utility to the diseased poor, who are attended by the ablest physicians and surgeons. This charitable foundation was first opened in the year 1745: The name of Bishop Maddox will be ever rendered venerable, as the chief patron of its pious institution.

The day appointed for the admission of patients is,

At the weekly board every SATURDAY,

Between the Hours of Eleven and Twelve o'Clock;

But in case of fractures, or sudden accidents, the attending physician or surgeon is empowered to admit patients without any recommendation. Every subscriber of a guinea has a right to recommend one in-patient and one out-patient every year.

The House of Industry, for the better relief and employment of the Poor, is a large handsome brick building. (not yet inhabited,) on an eminence called Tolly's Hill, at a short distance from the City. — It was erected by Virtue of an Act passed in the 32d Year of the Reign of his present Majesty, and is under the management of twelve Directors.

The Hop-Market, is the most considerable, during the Hop-Season, in the Kingdom. Is governed by guardians, chosen out of every parish in the city, whose office is to remit the benefits arising from it to the churchwardens of their respective parishes, for the use of the poor.

The Water Engine, at Barbourn, is of great utility to the inhabitants, by supplying the city with water.

Porter

Porter Brewery, in Hinton Lane, has been established near 47 years; it has lately been considerably enlarged and improved, by the addition of a new strong building, which brewery is esteemed the first out of the metropolis. — It received considerable damage by fire on the 2d of December, 1791, but from the exertions of the proprietors, the part consumed is again rebuilt, and the trade carried on as usual.

Vinegar Manufactory, in Silver-street, was built in 1785.

The Porcelain Manufactory, (Flight and Barr's,) established in the year 1751, is in great repute; it was visited by their Majesties, in 1788, who expressed in high terms the pleasure a sight of the different branches of the works had given them; and have ever since patronized the manufactory.

The Porcelain Manufactory, (Chamberlain's,) situate near Digley, where the china, honoured with the approbation of their Majesties, was finished; since which time a considerable improvement has taken place, and a number of hands employed in forming articles upon the oriental principles of transparency and strength.

Carpet Manufactories, in Silver-street and Lowermore, the former of which place was visited by their Majesties, in 1788.

Registrar's Office, adjoining Edgar's Tower, is open for public business from 9 in the morning till 1, and from 2 in the afternoon till 6. Here are registered all wills proved, or administration granted, by the Ordinary of the Diocese of Worcester; also other records of the Diocese.

Worcester and Birmingham Canal Office, near the Cross, was opened in 1791.

Trinity Hall, now the property of the worshipful Company of Clothiers, was a House of Black Friars in the Reign of King Edward III.

City Goal, was a House of Grey Friars, in the Reign of Henry III. In 1789, the back part was encompassed with a lofty brick wall, and has since had several new apartments built.

County Goal, (called the Castle,) greatly improved and enlarged in 1786. On this spot stood the Castle of Worcester, where Kings of England kept their Courts.

County Bridewell, enlarged in the year 1787.

Meeting Houses, in Worcester, viz. 2 Presbyterians, 2 Quakers, 2 Methodists, 1 Annabaptist, and 1 Roman Catholic Chapel.

Hospitals, or Alms Houses, in Worcester.

St. Oswald's, situate in the Tything, for the support of men and women, who are allowed 2s. 6d. per week, a ton of coals every year, and coats and gowns once in two years. Is governed by a master. Has a handsome chapel; and a Chaplain resident therein. Dr. Waugh, Dean of Worcester, augmented its revenues to the additional sum of 50l. a year.

Sherwing's, in the Tything, is endowed for six poor women who have been housekeepers, at 1s. 8d. per week, and were residents in the following parishes, viz.
St.

St. Andrew's, St. Helen's, All Saints, St. Clement's, St. Swithin's, and Tything of Whistones.

Inglesb'p's, near the Foregate Street, endowed for 8 men and 1 woman, who are allowed 2s. a week.

Geary's, situate in different parts of the city, erected at his own voluntary expence, for the maintenance of poor house-keepers.

Berkeley's, near the Cross, endowed by Judge Berkeley, for 12 poor men. This is a handsome hospital, accommodated with a very neat chapel, and has a Chaplain resident therein. There is a good carved figure of the donor of this charity, fixed in the front of the chapel, in his robes, well executed.

Trinity, endowed by Queen Elizabeth for 20 poor women, with an allowance of 1s. 3d. per month. The government is invested in 6 of the Chamber, who have passed the chair.

Queen Elizabeth's Grammar School, endowed for the classical education of 12 boys, with the annual allowance of 13s. 4d. to the three senior scholars to buy books.

Moore's, This charity provides for the cloathing and maintenance of ten blue boys of St. Martin's parish, who attend the Corporation in all public processions.

Nash's, in New Street, is endowed for 8 poor men and two women, at 2s. a week; but has been augmented by the addition of provision for 2 men.

Wyatt's, in Friars Street, endowed for 6 poor men, who have 2s. a week, a coat, shoes, and half a ton of coals every year.

Mrs. Milbrow Hooke, of St. John's, built a School-House, and endowed it with 5*l.* a year, which has since been augmented by a donation of 23*ol.* by Mrs. Herbert.

A C C O U N T OF THE R O Y A L V I S I T,

To the City of W O R C E S T E R.

ON Saturday, August 2. 1788, their Majesties, his Royal Highness the Duke of York, the Princess Royal, Princess Augusta, and Princess Elizabeth, passed thro' Worcester, from Cheltenham, on a Visit to the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Worcester, at Hartlebury, and returned to Cheltenham in the afternoon.

On Tuesday, August 5, Their Majesties, the three Princesses, and Suite, arrived at the Palace; their arrival was announced by the ringing of bells, in consequence of which there was a most splendid illumination, in the evening, throughout the city and suburbs, which had a magnificent effect; the emblematical transparencies, variegated lamps, &c. &c. were peculiarly attractive, and evinced the loyalty of the citizens to their illustrious visitors; the evening concluded with the greatest joy and festivity.

E

Wednesday,

Wednesday, Aug. 6, early in the morning his Majesty walked thro' different parts of the town, accompanied by two noblemen, and admired the cleanliness of the streets, the pleasant situation of the city, the elegance and uniformity of the buildings, and its salubrious air.

At Ten o'clock, the nobility, gentry, clergy, and corporation attended the Levee, at the Palace, when elegant Addresses were spoken by the Bishop, and the Right Hon. the Earl of Coventry, Recorder of the City; to which the King was pleased to return most gracious answers, after which, they had the honour of kissing his Majesty's hand; the Honour of Knighthood was conferred on Charles Trubshaw Withers, Esq.

At Eleven their Majesties went to the Cathedral, where an elegant Throne was erected for their reception, under the great west window of the nave of the church, and which remained during the Music Meeting, richly decorated with crimson silk, and gold tassels, over which was a large Imperial Crown; beneath the Throne were the seats for the nobility, clergy, corporation, &c. when a sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Langford. In the course of the service was performed the Overture in Esther, Mr. Handel's Dettingen, Grand Jubilate, two Coronation Anthems, &c.

The uncommon exertions of the different performers gave the highest satisfaction, and the whole of the performance was conducted in a manner which did honour to the Stewards,

The Hon. EDWARD FOLEY, M.P.

AND

The Rev. Dr. LANGFORD, Canon of Windsor.

Nine

Nine Hundred Persons were present the first day of the Music Meeting, amongst whom were the following great Personages:

His present MAJESTY, GEORGE III.

The QUEEN,
PRINCESS ROYAL.

Princess AUGUSTA,

AND

Princess ELIZABETH.

BISHOPS of
Worcester, | Hereford, | Gloucester.

DUKE of Norfolk.

EARLS of
Coventry, | Oxford,
Plymouth, | Harrington.

LORDS,
Sandys, | Courtown,
Westcote, | Peterham.

LADIES,
Pembroke, | Harcourt.

HONOURABLES,
Edward Foley, | Mr. Littleton,
Andrew Foley, | Mr. A. Windfor.
Mr. Poyntz, and Son, |

Lieut. General Trefau.

Vice Chamberlain Digby.

Colonels, Dowdeswell, Gwynne, Goldsworthy, &c. &c.
The

The King was dressed in blue and gold, the Queen and Princesses in dark silk, their bonnets purple and gold spots.

Thursday, Aug. 7, The Royal Visitors attended the Cathedral, when a Selection of Sacred Music from Handel was performed.

Friday, Aug. 8, The King was pleased to walk in Procession with the Mayor, Recorder, Aldermen, and Common Council, in their gowns, attended by their proper officers, music, flags of the city companies, and conducted by them in procession, (the Mayor bearing the sword, and the four senior Aldermen the mace,) from the Palace to the Guild-Hall, where the Tables were spread with fruits and refreshments suitable to the occasion.

His Majesty expressed great satisfaction at the loyal and affectionate reception he had met with in this City and though at an unusual hour, in a glass of wine graciously drank, "Prosperity to the City, and Corporation of Worcester." On his commanding them to add some mark of his Royal Favor, they requested the Picture of a Sovereign who had conferred so distinguished an honour on them; to which he graciously assented, and which Picture, executed by a able artist, is now placed in the Common Council Chamber.

After the Procession their Majesties, and Princesses went to the Cathedral to hear the Oratorio of the Messiah, at which near Three Thousand Persons were present; on entering the Royal Seat, his Majesty seemed struck with the magnificent spectacle which presented itself to his view, and looked round for some minutes with a most earnest and satisfactory attention.

The Performers, both Vocal and Instrumental, gave the highest satisfaction; Madam Mara, and Mrs. Ambrose, seemed particularly to attract the Royal Ear; and we may venture to affirm, without exaggeration, that a more general emulation to excel was never before witnessed.

In the Evening their Majesties went to the Miscellaneous Concert, in the College-Hall, where a superb Box was prepared for their reception.

His Majesty, desirous of contributing as much as possible to the Benefit of this Charity, for the Relief of the Widows and Orphans of the poor Clergy, ordered his own private Band to assist on this occasion, and gave 200l. to the Charity.

Among other Royal Donations, his Majesty gave 300l. for the Relief of the poor Debtors, in the City and County Prisons; liberated Criminals of a particular description; also gave 100l. to the Poor of the City.

Saturday Morning, Aug. 9, after a stay of five days, their Majesties, Princesses, and Suite, left Worcester, on their way to Cheltenham, (thro' Malvern,) after viewing Messrs. Flight's Porcelain Manufactory, where they gave ten guineas to the Poor's Box.

A List of the Kings who have visited Worcester.

1129. King Henry I. kept his Christmas here.
 1139. Stephen stayed a short time.
 1150. Henry II. crowned in the Cathedral.
 1207, and 1214. King John visited; buried here in 1215.
 1232. Henry III. kept the festival of his nativity here.
 1234. Henry III. kept Whitsuntide here, and invested the Earl of Pembroke with the Order of Knighthood.
 1264. Henry III. came with the Earl of Leicester.
 1276. Edward I. after his accession to throne, made eleven visits, in different years; held a parliament; and the Prince of Wales was gratified with the marriage of an English Heiress.
 1405. Henry IV. after the battle with the Earl of Northumberland, requested relief from the clergy here.
 1580. Queen Elizabeth, who, among other benefactions, made a grant of Free-Bench to the widows of freemen of this city.
 1646. Charles I. passed thro' Worcester, in his exile.
 1651. August 23, Charles II. with his army from Scotland, arrived, and possessed themselves of Worcester, after a slight opposition; and was next day, by the Mayor and Sheriff of the City, proclaimed King of Great Britain, &c.

Sept. 3, commenced the battle of Worcester, between the King's Army and the Cromwelians. Oliver Cromwell, with 80,000 men, appeared on Red-hill, within a mile of the City, and the contest was fierce and resolute, for four hours. New supplies continually joining the enemy, and the main body of the King's

King's horse not coming timely up to his aid, he was forced to retreat with his worn-out troops, into the city: some of the King's officers rallied what forces they could, and again charged them in Sidbury and High-street; which, tho' unsuccessful with regard to victory, was of singular service to the unfortunate King, by diverting the attention of the Oliverians, whilst he made his escape.

This memorable battle was the decision of the controversy so long subsisting between the King and Parliament; the fortune of which gave to the latter the full possession of the three kingdoms.

1687. James II. passed through Worcester, in his Progress to Cheshire.

1788. August 2, King George III. with his Queen, Duke of York, and three Princesses, passed through Worcester to Hartlebury.

1788. August 5, the King, Queen, and Princesses, arrived, and honoured the Music-Meeting with their presence at four Performances, and stayed five days.
